Customer Reviews

The first thing I noticed about this book is the very cheap quality of paper. You would likely rip the pages (and not be able to answer the questions on the opposite side) if you actually wrote in it. Next, the amount of new questions is actually very minimal. For example, "4: Question Type 2: Text Completion" has 9 easy, 8 medium and 8 hard questions. Another example, 5: Question Type 3: Sentence Equivalences" has 5 easy, 8 medium and 7 hard new questions. While I was going through section 4, I noticed that in the answer key the answers to number 6 in the hard portion are listed as A and D (page 65). However, if you go to the explanations section, the correct answers are now apparently A and F (page 77). Which one are we supposed to believe is correct, ETS? It's very unprofessional for not a single editor to catch that. Further, if you were hoping for strategies like they put in the official quantitative practice questions, look elsewhere. Some of the logic behind correct answers is that none of the others answers fit. As one can infer, a lot of the explanations for correct answers are poor, at best. ETS really needs to release more questions--the new test is almost three years old now--keeping all of these questions confidential is bordering on unethical considering how greatly this test impacts the future of several graduate students' lives. Finally, the staff who write this publication need to be more meticulous and give strategies and full explanations that help test takers eliminate answers and reason the way that ETS would wish of them. Overall, this is overpriced for the quality and amount of content. I'm disappointed. UPDATE: The editing gets even more egregious.
